Road Transport (Alcohol and Drugs) Act 1977 - Report on analytical findings

Road Transport (Alcohol and Drugs) Act 1977 - Report on analytical findings

The Road Transport (Alcohol and Drugs) Act 1977 specifies offences relating to driving while having ingested drugs and/or alcohol. The ACT Government Analytical Laboratory (ACTGAL) of the Health Protection Service provides an analytical toxicology service to analyse biological specimens and report certified results on the presence of drugs and alcohol in such samples. ACTGAL is an “Approved Laboratory” and employs appointed “Analysts” as described in the Act.
